

The Washouts.

NO MAIL SINCE THURSDAY.

NONE IN PROSPECT FOR SOME DAYS.

Calgary, July 7.

The centre pier of the big iron bridge over the Bow river, three miles east of Calgary, is split. The twin bridges over the Bow between Calgary and Cochrane are down and there is a half mile washout at Shaganappi point. There are heavy washouts between here and Olds, on the C. & E. north and also on the C. & E. south, so that Calgary is cut off from the outside world. The bridge is still standing, but it is still standing. The C. P. R. do not hope to have communication east or west for three days, and can give no idea of when the north and south lines will be open. The flood in Calgary is subsiding. All bridges out of the city are impassable.

C. P. R. Office, Calgary, July 7. Mail train will run day after tomorrow if possible. There is great difficulty, at doing the best we can.

Red Deer, July 7.

Red Deer river highest ever known. The approaches to the traffic bridge on the south side are going. No serious damage here is anticipated.

Carstairs, July 7.

The trouble on the C. & E. is near Calgary and near Didsbury. Repair gangs are at work.

Cardston Flooded.

Many houses are carried away by the St. Mary's river overflow at Cardston, Alberta.

Two drownings at Lethbridge. J. Davis and Willie Kemp were drowned in the belly river near Lethbridge.

St Paul Flooded.

A severe rain storm has flooded many districts in St. Paul.

Disastrous Flood in New York. Very disastrous rains and floods have visited eastern New York.

GALICIAN DROWNED.

Calgary, July 7.

A sad fatality occurred yesterday during the progress of railway repair work at Shaganappi point, whereby a Galician named Gregory Grochita lost his life. This man was working at the filling of the embankment and right above the waters of the Bow. He struck his pick into a plank and as he tried to pull himself up the plank slipped out of the wood and he rolled down into the river, which was raging past. He came to the surface in a minute straggling and endeavoring to reach the bank. Willing hands were extended to him and the workmen did all in their power to save his life. The swift current, however, swept him down and in a minute or so he disappeared from sight struggling with the waters. Little is known of this man but it is understood that he came from the Edmonton district to work for the railroad company. His body has not been found.

AGRICULTURAL DINNER.

The Edmonton Hotel was a suitable place to hold the complimentary dinner given by the Exhibition Association to judges and exhibitors on Thursday evening last, not only because of its proximity to the grounds, but also because of the part taken by the proprietor Mr. D. Ross, in aiding the agricultural progress of the district during his residence here for many years. In a country where farming is largely pioneer, the fact that the hotel was the first opened between Portage la Prairie and the Rocky Mountains, added still further to the interest. The tables were laden with a substantial spread, as became the occasion. After the King had been duly honored the president of the Exhibition Association, C. Gallagher, who occupied the chair, proposed "The Visitors."

P. Talbot, M. L. A., for Lacombe, a prominent short-horn breeder, first called on to respond. He expressed his thanks for the good treatment himself and his fellow exhibitors had received, and congratulated the Exhibition on the success of the fair. He was glad to see new men going into purebred cattle, something in which Edmonton has hitherto been somewhat backward. The speaker had started to raise thoroughbreds ten years ago. At that time there were very few in the business, the price of the purebreds was low and people were afraid that with more breeders going into the business the price would go still lower. But as the number of thoroughbreds increased the price had improved. As the district acquired a name for good stock buyers were attracted, and the competition of purebred breeders in the case of an increase of supply improved the demand. He would not say anything of the merits of different breeds. All that their good points and there was room enough for all. He especially mentioned Mr. Cully, who had recently imported a specially good bull and heifer. Such a success should be encouraged. The people of the district should be specially proud of the fact that the first prize thoroughbred bull of the show had been bred and reared here by Mr. English, of Strathcona. When he, the speaker had begun to rear thoroughbreds he had prophesied that in twenty years thoroughbreds from Alberta would be taking the sweepstakes in Toronto. Ten years had gone by and from what he had seen he would not ask for any extension of time. In fact he might spare a year or two. There was no reason why we could not raise good cattle here. We had a good climate, we had more abundant pasturage, and raised better turnips and oats than Ontario. These were the foundation of stock raising. Of course we could not get off 1 cake and melons here, but were none the worse off on that account. A word of advice to stock men. Don't decry one another's stock. There should be a generous rivalry, but no jealousy. Breeders should be careful not to depend too much on pedigree. A good pedigree did not make up for a faulty animal.

Mr. Bennie, of Castle Avery, Manitoba, who had brought two ears of excellent short-horn ears, called on next called on, but excused himself as having a bad cold, a trouble which was not apparent when he was singing Auld Lang Syne.

O. Palmer, of Lacombe, who had exhibited some fine Herefords, was the next speaker. It was the height of his ambition to encourage a generous rivalry amongst breeders. He had come from the States to Canada some two or three years ago and on looking over the opportunities he had decided to go into purebred stock. We had the feed here to make the animals. Feed was better here than in the States. Corn which was the staple there was better here. The feed here was better to produce bone and muscle. Of the four beef breeds he placed the white faces (Herefords) first. He saw no Hereford at the Calgary fair of last year. He had brought the start of a herd over from Nebraska. The Herefords were better rustlers than the Short-horns, and therefore were better for this country. They would protect their calves from coyotes or wolves better than other breeds, and their white faces attracted buyers on the market.

Mr. Sharman, of Souris, Man., representing the Manitoba stock association, expressed his pleasure in being at the fair and wished it abundant success. W. R. Stewart, of MacLeod, president of the Territorial Horse Breeders' association, expressed his thanks for the treatment received and his pleasure in being at the fair and banquet. Last year he had followed the races to the Pacific coast. He and other Territorial horse men had been well treated there, but never better than at Edmonton. He had noted that the cattle men expected some day to compete in the east. The horse men did not talk of what they hoped or expected, but of what they had done. They had gone to Ontario and the States with Alberta bred horses and had won, not only with race horses but with other breeds. Mr. Talbot should not say "we hope" he should say "we will." Still there was a great deal to be done in the horse business. Ontario had many more horses than we have. Out of 10,000 horses shipped by Canada to South Africa we in the west had only sold about 1,000. But we will yet excel Ontario in horse and muscle and lung power. One of the drivers in the recent races remarked that at the end of a heat the western horses gave a long puff, but the eastern horses gave fifteen or twenty puffs. At the Edmonton fair were a few of the best horses in Canada, or the States. Mr. McLaughlin, of High River, was going home and hence asked to contest for prize there with Hendrie and Seagram. He hoped that next year the Edmonton would give the biggest race meeting west of Winnipeg. He advocated a union of western towns, so that inducements could be offered to the west bringing all the horses on the circuit.

Mr. Panslow of Calgary, expressed his appreciation of the welcome accorded the visitors, and would try to come back another year. He was satisfied a breeder but a sport. He was satisfied to let Mr. Stewart raise horses, so long as he could buy horses to beat him. Edmonton had a great advantage in being able to secure such large gate receipts. In this they were ahead of Calgary. With such gate receipts this year he thought it would be possible to give a $5,000 meeting next year. The start just made by the Edmonton Association was as good as that made by Winnipeg. At all parts of the west we were only starting and would improve with experience. He was very satisfied with this meeting and would try again next year.

J. H. Garriple, vice-president, proposed the toast of "The Judges."

Dr. Reid, V. S., of the Ontario agricultural college, who was judge of the horses, was first called on. He expressed his pleasure at this his first visit to Edmonton. He had had no idea of the country before, but had a better one now. He was pleased to hear that the western horses were better than the eastern. They had more lung power. Lung power was what was wanted, but he advised that they could not get it by feeding power. That seemed so strong in them it would be a distinct advantage. He was much pleased with the exhibition. It was the best he had seen in the west. He was surprised at the progress of the country, and the quality of the horses. He was better than he expected. But he had been surprised at there being only two stallions exhibited. There must be good enough or were the inducements not great enough. He had been so favorably impressed with the Edmonton country that if he were leaving Edmonton he would certainly come here.

Duncan Anderson, of Oro, Ontario, and judge of cattle, said that this was his second trip to Edmonton. He had been here in March last and had been surprised at the mild weather then. The idea of single judges was a new one, and was adopted because Mr. Hodgins, Dominion stock commissioner, had come to the conclusion that we were not getting value for the money which exhibitions were costing. Under the old system of three judges, the prize was always a compromise. For his part he preferred to take the full responsibility for his judgment. Turning to the general question he thought there was a danger of being too sectional. Canada was a large country, and contained a great variety of resources, but of these resources the agricultural were the most important. When visiting Edmonton last winter and seeing the vast extent of fertile land ready for the plow, he thought of his own experience in clearing up an Ontario farm. His conclusion was that it had cost him the 25 best years of his life to get where the settler here could be in his first or second year. Speaking of the increase of agriculture, he said that Canada had exported 24-2 million dollars worth of farm products in 1890, and in 1900 she had exported 72-2 million. He predicted that in 1910 she would be exporting 150-200 millions. Times were now good throughout Canada and the world. But times would change, and he was dull. He said, Look behind me, and you will find very few grey haired men. When dull times come and expenses have to be cut down, only the men of greatest vigor and energy—the young men—will be retained. The old men will have to go. Then it will be well for the man who is east or west to have a farm of his own and depends on no one. No calling requires more intelligence than farming. He had been delighted at his visit to Edmonton. He had seen seven or eight young Short-horn bulls as fine as could be seen anywhere. Looking at the mighty Saskatchewan he thought of the many millions who would yet make their home on its banks. He knew of no place where he would like to farm better than around the town of Edmonton. Alberta, and particularly North Alberta used to be thought far from market. But British Columbia imports annually vast quantities of cattle, pigs, pork, mutton and beef, and North Alberta was the nearest district producing all these articles for export. Last winter Edmonton cattle were sent to Africa and this year there is a prospect of them going to Australia. Edmonton was nearer a market than eastern people supposed.

Mr. Manuels sang "True, True, Till Death."

F. F. Tins, secretary of the association proposed the health of F. Oliver, M. P., and Mayor Short.

Mr. Oliver remarked on the progress of agriculture in the district as evidenced by the fair just closed. The progress was due not to any change of natural conditions, which were as good twenty or fifty years ago as now, but to the application of industry and intelligent enterprise. There was a danger of people becoming too sectional and of Edmonton and the district being in that very danger. The less we knew the more we thought we knew it all. The more we learned the better we knew that there was still lots to learn. The fair had done good work in bringing outside competition so that we could see wherein we fell short of others and so learned wherein we must improve. The bringing in of outside judges was also a good thing. These men judged what they saw here by the standards established elsewhere. Their opinions were valuable, because they had had special opportunities of forming those opinions. Their opinions expressed in their decisions were valuable, and not less so the information which they had given as occasion offered. That we were able to make a good showing in the face of such critical judgment was something to be proud of, and an incentive to further effort towards improved agricultural methods.

Mayor Short welcomed the visitors to Edmonton. We have a good opinion of ourselves, but he thought if we reached the standard set by the cattle breeders of the county of Wellington, Ontario, we would be doing very well. He was pleased to know that our visitors were so favorably impressed with Edmonton, but advised them to come back in a few years and they would see a city second only to Winnipeg.

D. Ross responded to the toast of his health with a few remarks concerning his arrival and early enterprises in the district and concluded with an original recitation in which he described the croaking of pneumonia.

F. F. Tins, sang "The Chinaman." Mr. Bowker, chief of the broncho butlers, being called on mentioned that the mishap which he had suffered on the first day of the show, had placed him at somewhat of a disadvantage, as he had not entirely recovered. Speaking of bucking horses he said that between horses were not nearly as bad as represented. He had great difficulty in getting horses which could be depended on to buck.

Mr. McLaughlin, of High River, said he had visited Edmonton in '95, and he hoped to come again. He was pleased with the fair and the races. He was pleased to hear that the western horses were better than the eastern. He was not a horse man, but was fond of horses. In order to bring good race horses we must offer large prizes. We had given $2,000 in prize money last year, and next year he hoped we would be able to offer $10,000 for the free-for-all trot. He announced that there would be a matched race on August 1st, on the association track, between Ward Lawson and Hay Nelson for $500 a side.

The president, Mr. Gallagher, being called on spoke briefly. He was pleased at the success of the fair and thanked the officers and directors who had worked so hard for that success.

John McPherson, of Spruce Grove, and James Tough, of Long Lake, were called upon and expressed themselves as well pleased with the success of the fair.

D. Ross, of Spruce Grove, remarked on the fine stock shown. Exhibitors who had brought their cattle from such a long distance were entitled to every consideration. We should turn our attention more to stock raising in this district. The judging had been highly satisfactory and his attention had been drawn to points which he had not considered before.

M. McCauley on being called upon, said he had listened with great pleasure to the speeches. He was proud to see so many strangers in attendance at the fair. He mentioned that the first fair was held in Edmonton in 1879. The show had been good but there was no reason why we should not have a better. He appreciated very much the remarks of Mr. Anderson, as to the advantages of the Edmonton country. He had lived in Winnipeg before coming west and recalled the grasshopper plague of the early '70's there. After spending ten years in Manitoba he came to Edmonton looking for a home. He had found here a fine country, a rich soil, a mild winter, and now that there were good markets he expected production to double and treble in a very few years. And we were not at the jumping off place, as so many used to think. Beyond us was the Peace river, a magnificent and productive country. He believed that with care we would be able to add large fruit to the present abundance of small fruits. The government was taking an active interest in promoting agriculture in the Territories, by securing free transport for thoroughbred stock and in other ways.

The banquet was closed by the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

THE BIG FAIR.

The big fair was a great success in many ways, and in no way more than in the weather enjoyed. It was exceptionally fine throughout. Not a drop of rain, nor even threatening of rain, and the sun not too hot. The dust on the streets and roads was the only drawback. But it was welcome when the wet weather of May came, and early June was remembered, and with the rain of Thursday night, Friday night and Saturday it became a pleasing memory. The attendance is the great feature of a fair. That is what makes the gate receipts and arouses the interest of exhibitors far more than any inducement of prizes. The attendance during the whole three days of the fair showed that Edmonton is the place to hold a fair that shall be to the agricultural country of North Alberta and the Upper Saskatchewan valley what the Winnipeg fair is to Manitoba or the Toronto fair is to Ontario. In the heart of thickly settled and prosperous agricultural settlements it is possible to assemble a crowd of sightseers from the immediately surrounding country such as cannot be gathered at any other point in the West, not excepting Winnipeg. This makes a strong foundation to build on, and makes it possible for the exhibition association to offer prizes and provide attractions that will bring both competitors and sightseers from long distances, and so add to the interest of the fair for local people. We can get up a good fair at Edmonton without touching the railway and when we can do that the railway is at our service. Unfortunately the weather suffered in other places during fair week, the bad weather at Edmonton during fair week of the previous year, and the inability to washouts on the railway kept many intending visitors away. When under these circumstances the attendance was so satisfactory, there can be no doubt about the possibility of making the fair go in the future.

While there are certain disadvantages connected with holding a fair in mid-summer, after all it seems to be the only time. The fall weather may very well be as good as that of midsummer and the roads will probably be better, but farmers have not the time to spare at that season to attend a fair. Fall is the time of greatest rush in the West, and however desirable it is that people should attend the fair, they cannot afford to leave their stacking, threshing or fall ploughing for that purpose. And if a farmer has no time to attend the fall fair he has much less time to prepare exhibits for it. Mid-summer, after seeding is over and before haying commences is the time of the farmer's summer leisure—if he has any. He can spare the time to see the show, and indeed after a hard spring's work feels very much like taking a day or two off, and if he has anything to show can give the time and attention to fit it up.

Live stock of all kinds, poultry, dairy and kitchen products, threshed grain and growing grasses can be exhibited as well or better at midsummer than at the fall. The same is true of art, fancy work and school exhibits; of everything in fact except vegetables. These of course are the crowning glory of the season, and it is a pity that they should be lacking from an agricultural exhibition, especially in this country where they do so well. But we cannot have both the vegetable exhibit and a big crowd. We have to give up one or the other. It is better to give up the vegetables than to give up the chance of an abundantly successful fair.

The advantages of holding a fair on a large scale are many. This district is above all a farming region. It is desirable in the interests of every one that the products of the farm should be brought up to the highest possible pitch of excellence. This can be done by getting the people together and enabling them to compare results, not only between themselves and their neighbors, but still better between themselves and what has been done elsewhere. Every improvement that is achieved in farming is an addition to the general wealth of the district, and anything that will aid or induce improvement is a matter of public interest.

The officers and directors of the exhibition association are entitled to every credit for the enterprise which they displayed in pushing the fair after the discouragements of last year, and the doubtful prospects in the early part of this season. It is another instance of fortune favoring the brave.

SCARLET FEVER IN CALGARY.
Albertan: Before beginning his sermon at the Church of the Redeemer last night the very Rev. Dr. Paget took occasion to refer to the lax quarantine system in the city. He spoke of the prevalence of scarlet fever and the difficulty in stamping it out. He stamped it out would be impossible unless the houses were properly placarded. This was not being done. There were many places in the city where the children had scarlet fever and were playing on the streets. Dr. Paget told of one case where he had discovered scarlet fever. He informed the police authorities and two days later he had returned to the same place and found the place without a placard.

FAREWELL GATHERING.

On June 25th, at the residence of Mr. Morley Van Camp, Clover Bar, there was a gathering of the members and friends of the Clover Bar Methodist church to bid farewell to the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Adamson. Tea was served on the lawn. After tea a presentation was made and the following address was read by Mr. J. A. Fithie:

To Mr. and Mrs. Adamson,
Our Dear Friends.—It is with mingled feelings of gladness and regret that we are thus met together this evening. We are glad in the pleasure of your company, we regret to say farewell.

During your work here we have learned to love you as Christ's ambassadors to us and your earnest Christian service has filled us with a true conception of a Christ-like life. We feel that you have been an honored instrument in God's hand of bringing many to know their Saviour and of raising the whole Christian community into closer sympathy with the noble work for which Christ died and for which we are set apart.

Especially do we rejoice in your work among the young. These have learned by your example the meaning of a whole-hearted, zealous service and we have all admired your willingness to spend and to be spent in our Master's service.

Our memories give us many happy pictures of the building, where we worship, rings to mind your days of labor spent so eagerly. New earnest faces in our congregation tell of weeks of self-sacrificing effort. God's faithful testimony of our friends recall the high and holy standard you have ever kept before us.

We have also learned to love the quiet, cheerful strength of Mrs. Adamson. We have no doubt that many of the qualities which shine so brightly in your service are kept bright and pure by a sacred home where holiness to the Lord is written in the heart and interpreted in the life of your truly Christian wife.

We beg of you to accept this slight token of our regard,—here a prayer was presented by Mr. Lindsay.—It is given with the prayers of God's people that you may continue in the sphere of ever widening influence where God has so abundantly blessed you.

May the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you.

Mr. Adamson responded in his usual happy manner giving his thanks and appreciation for the presentation and address and wishing them continued prosperity and success.

FLOODS ON THE BOW.

Calgary Herald, July 2nd.

For the last day or so the Bow river has been rising slowly but surely. Little apprehension was felt until yesterday when the abnormal rain which poured down all day made it seem as if a flood might be anticipated. The river was full from bank to bank and running like a mill race, and last night at sundown it seemed as if very little more was needed to make it overflow its banks. During the course of the evening the river was steadily rising, and about 12 o'clock overflowed and the Languevin bridge. It spread out to the Abbott avenue, inundated the sidewalk at the east end of Northvale avenue, flooded some stables, and forced two families to move out of their quarters.

This morning considerable apprehensions were expressed as to the possibility of a serious flood, but as the river was still within four feet of the flood mark of 1897, and did not seem to be rising, there did not seem to be much danger.

A Herald man walked out to the Langevin bridge this morning, and found the low lying ground on the south side of the bridge practically under water. The sidewalks in some cases were afloat, and the water was rising up underneath them through a natural ditch which had been formed, and emptying itself by Abbott avenue into the river.

Near an outhouse close to the bridge were some agricultural implements, mowers, rakes, etc., which for some time past have been bearing a placard attached to the seat of a mower, with the designation "for sale" upon it. The water has covered the implements, and hardly anything can be seen now except the "for sale" placard, sticking prominently above the rushing waters.

Out on the bridge the river prospect was enough to turn one dizzy. The river was roaring through its channel, beating against the piers and gurgling underneath in a most awesome manner. The bridge, however, was standing as firm as rock. Every once in a while a log could be seen fairly shooting down, and showing by its speed, the rate at which the waters were flowing. The waters are abating somewhat, and have gone down about two inches this morning. The river rose last night about one foot. There is no immediate danger of a repetition of the flood of 1897.

RAILWAY FINES REMITTED.

Hon. A. J. Blair heard Saturday an application for the remission of penalties in connection with certain British Columbia railways. Charles W. Neil, a porter in a hotel in Victoria, reported that a number of railways failed to make statistical returns under section 259 of the railway act. At the last session of parliament a bill was passed for the remission of these penalties, as they amounted to several million dollars. The first case was that of Neil vs. The Nelson Street railway. The penalties amounted to about half a million dollars. The minister remitted all the penalties, except $100 and the taxed costs of plaintiff; half of the fine goes to the government and half to the informer. In the case of Neil vs. The Lenora Railway Co. the penalties claimed were $80,000. Mr. Blair remitted all except $50 and costs, if any, to be taxable. In the case of the British Columbia Electric railway, which runs between New Westminster and Vancouver about two million dollars in penalties were claimed. The minister reserved his decision in this case. It is just probable that all will be remitted except about $500. Travers Lewis appeared for the first two railways mentioned, and Mr. Gemmell for the last one. Mr. Chrysler represented the plaintiff.

RAINFALL AT CALGARY.

A telegram from Calgary dated June 26th, says: The rain fall recorded at the Calgary meteorological station during the month of May amounted to 8.9 inches and for June up till 6 this morning the rain fall was 7.86 inches, a total of 16.77 inches since May 1. One inch of rain on the one hundred tons of water on each square acre; therefore 1,667 tons of water have fallen on each acre of ground in this locality since May 1.

CANADIAN NORTHERN RAILWAY.

Montreal, June 29.—Mr. William Mackenzie and Mr. D. D. Mann, left here to-day for Nova Scotia on the special car of the Canadian Northern railway. They say the railway following the Atlantic coast of Nova Scotia started within the next few days. Mr. Mann said fully equipped passenger trains would run between Port Arthur and Winnipeg within two weeks. The Canadian Northern railway will build 250 miles during the present year.

Mr. Mackenzie, speaking of the Toronto street railway strike, said it did not seem the men had secured anything they could not have obtained had the strike not taken place. He added that not one Toronto paper had placed the exact state of affairs before the public.

ISSUE OF PATENTS.

The Edmonton registry office has issued certificates of title during the year ending June 30th, 1902, to the number of 1,653. Last year the number of patents issued was 1,515; an increase of 138.

Certificates of title to C. P. R. lands to the number of 270 have been issued during the year just ended. Each certificate contains from a quarter section to ten thousand acres.

A large number of C. P. R. patents have been issued which await the issue of certificates.

CUSTOMS REVENUE.

Ottawa, June 30.—The customs revenue for the Dominion for the month of June was $2,987,213, compared with $2,787,000 for June last year, an increase of over $200,000. But there are some $450,000 outstanding for the month, which will make the increase over half a million dollars.

The revenue for the year, not including what is outstanding, $32,062,729, against $28,129,819 last year, an increase of nearly 14 millions. When all the revenue is in, the increase will be about three millions and a half.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN GOAT.

Winnipeg Telegram. A Rocky Mountain goat has been added to the native wild animals in the Banff National Park. Mr. Douglas, the superintendent offered the sum of $50 for a kid and a party of Stoney Indians soon succeeded in capturing one near Kananaskis. The little fellow is quite tame and is being fostered and mothered by one of the Angora goats. There is only one other animal of the species in captivity and it is in the Zoo gardens, London.

COAL MINES LEASES.

Ottawa, June 30.—An order-in-council has been passed amending clause 1 of the order-in-council June 11, 1902, respecting the issue of school leases in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories for coal mining purposes. Leases can now be issued for a period not exceeding twenty years, instead of ten years as was authorized by the order of June 11.

Has 20,000 acres of as fine land as can be selected in Beaver Lake, Vermilion and Birch Lake country.

These lands are adapted to both raising grain and stock. There are three lines of proposed Railroads running through this part of the country. These lands can never be bought cheaper than now. We are selling every day and they are not going to last long. Improve the opportunity and place your money where you are sure of securing a good profit by the investment.

Many invest in Mining, some in Oil, some in Bonds; only a few reach the goal; the rest find their hard earned money gone with only a piece of nice paper to tell the story. Why not buy a piece of land one-half mile [] to look at and see it increase from year to year in value until it makes you and yours a nice little fortune? It will surely come. It is only a question of time.

We solicit your trade. Call or write and get maps and information of these cheap lands.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

The fine weather did not last beyond the close of the fair. Since Thursday evening there have been frequent showers and very little sun. From Thursday night until Monday morning overtime and three-quarters inches of rain fell. Of course this has made the roads bad again. So far the crops have been improved by the rain, as it has been warm and has spread over several days. The growth is simply marvellous. This morning the weather was very clear, but there have been several light showers during the day.

SUPREME COURT.

Court was opened this morning by His Lordship Justice Scott.

On the criminal docket there are ten names, viz.: Kirmish—Horse stealing and breaking goal. St. Pierre—Two charges of theft. Johnson—Murder. Wagner—Fraudulent converting. Felske—Seducing ward. Morrow—Wounding cattle. Sullivan—Wounding Muttelstadt—Shooting with intent. Brock—Carrying revolver. Paul—Attempting to escape.

In addition there is a long list of small debts and civil cases.

LAND OFFICE

During the month of June, at the Edmonton land office, 318 homesteads were entered, 38 applications for patents and 828 letters, respecting land, were received.

For the same period last year 150 homestead entries were made, 22 applications for patents and 585 letters were received.
